Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 07 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Persistent snow, heavy and drifting at times. Bitterly cold.

Today:
Widespread snow and bitterly cold winds, the snow often heavy, particularly across eastern areas. Further significant accumulations and drifting of snow will occur, especially for eastern areas with coastal gales. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tonight:
Snow will continue to be widespread, heavy at times and drifting in places. Accumulations increasing, even to low levels. Winds remaining strong with coastal gales. Icy, feeling bitterly cold. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Monday:
Snow showers or longer spells of snow likely on Monday, with further accumulations and drifting of snow in strong winds. Winds becoming lighter and snow easing. Bitterly cold still. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
There remains a chance of the odd scattered snow shower through Tuesday and Wednesday. Remaining cold but with outbreaks of winter sunshine, these perhaps becoming more widespread on Thursday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.